Over the course of two decades Gonterman Construction has grown from a fledgling remodeling firm on the coast of Orange County, to a luxury custom home agency with an impressive list of clientele.

Behind the solid growth of Gonterman Construction has been Jason Gonterman—a man with a lifelong passion for construction and building relationships. It has been this passion and an ever-expanding network of connections that have led to Gonterman becoming renowned for not simply building homes, but for realizing visions—something only ever made possible by the use of the right, exceptional talent.

Today, Jason revels in his reputation as heading up a firm that boasts honesty and integrity—often two rarities in this industry. As for the future, Jason looks forward to the next two decades and all that they may bring in modern living and always advancing construction techniques; yet no matter what changes around him, his distinctive approach to every project will remain unaltered.

“With every project the most fundamental goal we have is to create an environment that our clients can live, entertain and thrive in.”
